The theme in the library right now is 'Spring Into Reading!' Mrs. McGill challenges all students, parents and school staff to try a new book that you wouldn't normally read! Mrs. McGill isn't picky on what you read - you can read a magazine, non-fiction book, picture book, novel, newspaper, gaming books, etc. You may find one that you like and if you don't try something different, you'll never know. Everyone is a reader you just have to find the right book!

Book Recommendation

Ban This Book by Alan Gratz
Grade 3-6

Grade 3 student Amy Anne, finds out that her favourite book is banned because one parent thinks that these books aren't appropriate for kids to read. Amy Anne decides to fight back by starting a secret banned-books library out of her locker. Soon, she and her friends find themselves on the front line of an unexpected battle over book banning, censorship, and who has the right to decide what kids can read.

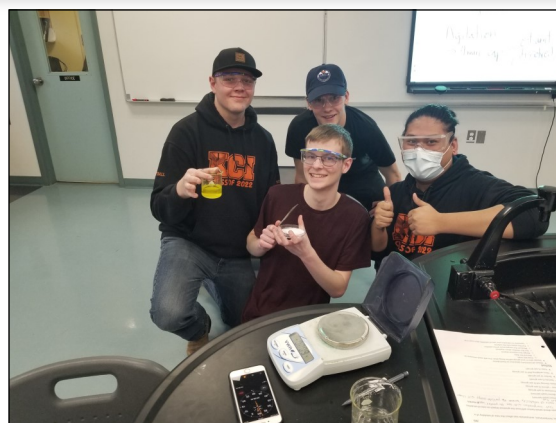

Book Fair

Our Spring Book Fair is back! We will be offering in-person book fair as well as virtual. The in-person book fair will be May 19th and 20th from 9am til 5:30pm. The library won't be available to classes these two days so Mrs. McGill can focus on the book fair.

The Virtual book fair will run the whole week from May 16th til the 20th. All of the profits of this book fair as well as from the previous book fair in the fall will be going towards more comfortable seating in the library! We are looking forward to be able to host a book fair again! More details about the Book Fair will be available in May.

Hope you all have a great spring!

CAKE WARS!!

The cake class recently battled in their first cake war!

The Goal: Design a cake that looks like a food item. Working in teams, students had four days to design, bake, and prep all elements needed for their cakes. On competition day, teams had 50 minutes to assemble and decorate their cakes for three prestigious judges: Mrs. Lovett, Mrs. Blixhavn, and Ms. Selby. The winning team - Hamburger - gained an advantage in the next competition. They chose to have a 10 minute head start at the next competition!
